The plane lost radio contact as it was coming down to land. There was no indication of trouble. The weather was foggy over the crash site but clear at the airport.

ASNE Chief Hits Federal Censorship

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors says members of the Nixon administration are trying to muzzle the news media. A top Nixon aide denies there is any effort to control the media or stifle dissent.

Norman E. Isaacs, executive editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times, said Wednesday the administration had undertaken a campaign to bring both newspapers and broadcast stations under "some form of covert control."

In a speech at the University of Michigan he suggested two possible motives, intimidation or control, then asked: "But is there any essential difference so long as you succeed? The end result is muzzling of some kind."

In New York, Herbert G. Klein, President Nixon's communications director, addressed industry executives at the International Radio & Television Society at the Plaza Hotel.

"Let me say flatly that, from the President on down, no one in this administration is for censorship," he said.

Solon's Wife A Suicide In Nashville

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Mrs. Richard H. Fulton, 42, blonde wife of Tennessee's 5th District congressman, was found shot to death in the couple's apartment here Wednesday, police said.

Dist. Atty. Gen. Thomas Shriver said Mrs. Fulton died of a self-inflicted bullet wound to the head.

Investigators said the body, clad in a nightgown, was found by the Fultons' two daughters, Donna, 15, and Linda, 12. Mrs. Fulton held a pistol in one hand and the telephone in the other and her body was sprawled across a bed.

George Barrett, a close friend of the Fultons, said Mrs. Fulton had been suffering "severe migrain headaches and occasional periods of intense depression for several weeks. She had been particularly concerned that the congressman not know that she was feeling ill."

Mrs. Howard Holder, manager of Crown Chateau Apartments in suburban Madison, where the Fultons had been living temporarily said a note written in longhand was lying on a magazine beside Mrs. Fulton's body. The magazine was open to an article "Husbands: Take Care of Their Hearts."

Fulton, who is serving his fourth term in Congress, was at a reception in Washington when he was informed of his wife's death. He left immediately for Nashville.

Fulton and his wife, the former Miss Jewel Simpson, were childhood sweethearts and married Dec. 23, 1945.

Mrs. Fulton leaves three sons and the two daughters.

Paul Brown Announces For Governor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown today announced his candidacy for the 1970 Republican nomination for governor.

"It has now become evident that Republicans will be asked to select a nominee from among several highly qualified persons," he said in a news release.

"I not only regard this as a healthy climate for Republicans, but also as ultimately beneficial to all the people of this state."

Both State Auditor Roger Cloud and State Treasurer John Herbert have indicated they would seek the party's gubernatorial nomination.

Cloud has called a news conference for Monday. Herbert said recently he was about as close to announcing as Cloud was.

Albert Sealy, a Dayton tax attorney and former legislator, has announced as a Republican candidate for governor but said recently he was slowing down his campaign because of finances.

Brown's announcement settles discussion about the direction of his political future.

He was a state Supreme Court justice when Gov. James Rhodes named him last Jan. 3 to become attorney general, succeeding William B. Saxbe who had won election to the U.S. Senate.

At the time Brown appeared to be Rhodes' heir apparent for the governor's post but administration support cooled in ensuing months.

This will be his first statewide partisan race.

Brown, 52, said in his announcement he has been talking

Reds Blast American 'Massacre'

PARIS (AP) — The Viet Cong declared today that the alleged American massacre of hundreds of civilians in Quang Ngai Province of South Vietnam in March 1968 "are only a few among thousands and thousands of crimes perpetrated by the United States and its puppet administration every day and every hour."

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, foreign minister of the Viet Cong's provisional revolutionary government, told the 43rd session of the deadlocked Paris peace talks that the killing at the village of My Lai and other American "war crimes" helped to turn the American people themselves against the Vietnam war.

"No village, no hamlet, no district capital in South Vietnam is exempt from the traces of the bloody American crimes," she said.

Mrs. Binh said the American people showed their opposition to the war and to President Nixon's Nov. 3 speech despite "all the deceitful, deterrent and intimidating measures" of the Nixon Administration.

South Vietnamese delegate Pham Dang Lam said the talks remained stalemate because Hanoi and the Viet Cong were still seeking "total victory for the Communist side rather than to restore peace in Vietnam."

He said the independence the Communists wanted for South Vietnam resembled the independence of Czechoslovakia and required "complete subservience to the dictatorial Communist countries."

PURPLE hearts were due the deputy clerks of the Municipal Court today as they performed their duties under adverse conditions. The threat of frostbite forced Judge Lamb to hold court in the back room of their office today. It seems that the stove in the courtroom, long in need of attention, has not received any. The official chambers being slightly warmer than the temperature outside, the court decided to retire to snuggler, warmer quarters, so snug one might be inclined to call them crowded.

Demo Party Reform Starts

Representation Question Evaded

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic party reformers have voted to require "a reasonable relationship" between the number of Negroes, women and young people in each state and the makeup of its delegation to the 1972 national convention.

But they compromised the difficult "proportional representation" question by delaying until 1976 at the earliest any requirement for inclusion of minority political viewpoints in each delegation. They did, however, urge efforts in this direction in 1972.

The decisions came Wednesday from a party reform commission, finishing work today on guidelines to be sent to state Democratic leaders for implementation.

The commission, created at the 1968 convention to recommend reforms in delegate selection, is headed by South Dakota Sen. George S. McGovern.

In its action to assure representation of minority groups, women and Democrats under 30, the commission insisted it was not establishing quotas. It passed a resolution 16 to 0 stating "this does not envision the imposition of a quota system."

The vote was 10 to 9 in favor of the move by Sen. Birch E. Bayh, D-Ind., to strengthen an antidiscrimination provision by requiring representation of minority groups in delegations bear "a reasonable relationship to the group's presence in the population of the state."

The commission then voted 13 to 7 to provide similar requirements for women and young people.

McGovern said 16 delegations at the 1968 convention had no members under 30, while 13 others had one.

Lima Schools May Have Long Holiday

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Public schools here will close between Dec. 10 and Jan. 5 if a 6.75 mill operating levy is rejected by voters Dec. 9, school officials said Wednesday night.

School Superintendent Earl M. Gorman said if the twice defeated levy is again rejected the schools will have a financial deficit of $107,000 by Dec. 31.

See Lower January Draft As Result Of New System

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense officials say they are confident the projected 35,000-man draft call for January can be lowered.

The drop is possible, they indicated, because the overall size of U.S. armed forces is being reduced and the rate of new volunteers has been satisfactory.

A new random draft lottery system probably goes into effect in January, replacing the system of inducting men from the 19-26 age group, with the oldest called first.

The Senate Wednesday completed congressional action on administration-requested legislation permitting President Nixon to order the lottery mechanism into effect. He is expected to sign the bill without delay.

After a transitional year, only 19-year-olds will be vulnerable for induction. During that first year all qualified men between 19 and 26 will be subject to the draft so that nobody will get a free ride.

According to present calculations the Pentagon expects to draft about 250,000 men during 1970—a decrease of about 40,000 from this year's bobtailed draft total.

As the United States pulls back gradually from Vietnam, the Pentagon is cutting down on the total number of men in uniform. So fewer draftees will be needed, assuming recruiting does not fall off drastically.

Last September, as the Vietnam withdrawal gathered momentum, Nixon canceled the 50,000-men draft quota for November and December and stretched out October's 29,000-man increment over the three-month period.

At that time, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said the 35,000-man draft call programmed for January would be reviewed in December.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of the dwindling band of uncommitted senators apparently plan no announcement in advance of Friday's voting on the Supreme Court nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr.

But three senators—Democrat Jennings Randolph of West Virginia and Republicans John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky and Charles McC. Mathias of Maryland—said they would announce their positions today.

As debate resumed today, an Associated Press survey showed 44 senators for confirmation, 41 opposed and 15 uncommitted in the dramatic, down-to-the-wire battle.

Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., is one of the uncommitted willing to leave the outcome in suspense to the last.

"I'm not going to make any comment," said the Oregon Republican. "I'm just going to vote."

Similarly, in a separate interview, Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, said he will not make his position known until he votes. "I might want to change my mind," he said.

Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania previously has said he will have no statement in advance of the vote, and this was the word also from Republican Sens. Charles H. Percy of Illinois and Robert W. Packwood of Oregon.

Packwood's office said, however, it could be stated publicly that he is leaning against the nomination. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., was reported by his office to be in the same category.

Two of the Senate's senior Republicans split Wednesday when John J. Williams of Delaware came out against Haynsworth and George D. Aiken of Vermont announced he would vote for confirmation.

Haynsworth, chief judge of the 4th U.S. Court of Appeals, also picked up the votes of two other Republican senators, J. Caleb Boggs of Delaware and Ted Stevens of Alaska.

The decision by Williams was hailed by opponents of Haynsworth's nomination as a major break for their side.

"Williams' decision is really more than one vote," said Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind. "Many members of both parties consider him the conscience of the Senate."

But within hours Aiken, the dean of Republican senators, was out with a statement in support of Haynsworth.

North Vietnamese gunners shelled a government task force

A North Vietnamese company commander captured Tuesday near Due Lap told interrogators that a major attack against that camp was planned for Wednesday night. But no such attack was reported. A second North Vietnamese company commander was captured Wednesday.

Leave Moon For Linkup With Gordon

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 12's moon explorers blasted off the bleak lunar surface today, chased their mother ship 3½ hours and linked up safely for the long journey home.

Charles "Pete" Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean, the third and fourth humans to land on the moon, skillfully guided their lunar ferry Intrepid through a series of rocket firings to catch Richard F. Gordon Jr. in the command vessel Yankee Clipper.

The two ships maneuvered into position and then gingerly moved together to lockup nose-to-nose—the first time they had been secured since Intrepid started the descent to the moon Tuesday night.

The linkup climaxed a busy day in which Conrad and Bean trekked a mile across lunar wastelands and carefully collected a treasure for science.

Conrad and Bean were to transfer into the command cabin after assembling their containers of lunar rocks and other gear they want to bring home.

Ninety minutes after they blazed away from the moon they spotted their fleeing target, the command vessel Yankee Clipper, racing about 140 miles ahead and 15 miles above them.

"I got you visually, Yankee," Conrad radioed.

"Roger," came the reply from Richard F. Gordon Jr., who has been orbiting on a lonely vigil since Intrepid started the trip down to the moon Tuesday night.

Right on schedule at 9:26 a.m. EST, a burst from the engine at the base of their cabin section vaulted Conrad and Bean off man's second lunar outpost, this one on the Ocean of Storms.

"Man, this is a hot machine," Conrad exclaimed as the tiny Intrepid blasted them off the moon after a stay of 31 hours, 32 minutes. "What a nice ride."

Seven minutes later they swept into an orbit ranging from 10 to 54 miles above the surface, 300 miles behind Gordon, orbiting at 65 miles.

An hour after liftoff, they fired their jet engines to move into an orbit at an altitude of about 50 miles. On the lower path they required less time to circle the moon and gradually closed in on their quarry, flashing through the lunar skies.

On the way up, the astronauts reported a master alarm flashed on briefly, but they could detect nothing wrong.

Conrad said he "got to watch"

WASHINGTON (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge has resigned as chief U.S. peace negotiator at Paris, the White House announced today and will not be immediately replaced.

In addition, New York attorney Lawrence E. Walsh also is resigning simultaneously as deputy head of the U.S. delegation at the Vietnam negotiations.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said he had no idea when a successor to Lodge would be selected. In the meantime, the acting head of the U.S. delegation will be Philip C. Habib, a career diplomat who has been Lodge's senior adviser.

The resignations of Lodge and Walsh, accepted with regret by President Nixon, became effective Dec. 8.

Ziegler was asked whether the uncertainty about when Lodge may be replaced was a calculated effort to downgrade the Paris talks.

"It's a matter of selecting a successor," he replied.

Stocks Drop Like A Rock

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market tumbled to a steep, steep, broadly-based loss in active trading early this afternoon.

Analysts said investors were reacting to statements by Nixon administration officials who threw cold water on their hopes for a relaxation of monetary restraints.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon had fallen 10.83 to 829.13.

At noon The Associated Press 60-stock average had lost 3.3 to 287.9, with industrials off 5.0, rails off 1.6, and utilities off 1.7.

More than 1,000 issues declined while only about 200 advanced on the New York Stock Exchange. Of the 20 most-active issues on the Big Board, 19 dropped.

The slump swept through the steels, motors, rubber issues, aircrafts, electronics, utilities, rails, oils, tobaccos and drugs.

Analysts said the market also was under technical pressure as a result of the Dow Jones industrial average sinking below the 835-840 area, which had been considered an important test level.

Prices fell sharply on the American Stock Exchange, with all 20 of the most-active issues declining.

Viet Red Infiltration Rises, Laird Says In Senate Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, in a marathon defense of administration diplomatic and military policy, reports a stepup of enemy infiltration into South Vietnam during the past two weeks.

"I can't give you the reason that Hanoi has decided to increase infiltration," Laird said.

Word of the enemy activity came as military sources reported U.S. combat deaths in Vietnam have risen for the second straight week. The sources said the weekly casualty report due Thursday will show more than 100 American soldiers killed in battle last week, compared with 97 the previous week and 83 of the week before that.

Officials said the level is still low enough to permit the President to order additional U.S. troops withdrawn.

Lowered rates both of casualties and of North Vietnamese troop movement into the southern war zone were among the hopeful signs mentioned by President Nixon in his Nov. 3 report to the nation on Vietnam. "There has been some increase in infiltration during the last two weeks," Laird said Wednesday after spending more than six hours behind the closed doors of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Laird gave no figures, but Committee Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said the secretary had said infiltration had risen to the rate of a year ago.

Laird told the committee that ground combat will be turned entirely over to South Vietnam "in a reasonable time frame." Fulbright said Laird refused to be more specific about a timetable for the number of American forces to remain in a supporting role.

"I hope that I have satisfied the critics," Laird said after his committee appearance. He had not.

"It's a program for the continuation of the war," said Fulbright. He said he believes some 200,000 Americans would have to remain in Vietnam even if Saigon took over ground combat.

"My criticism doesn't really run to the secretary's Vietnamization as much as it does to a lack of emphasis on negotiations and almost a sense of hopelessness," Fulbright said.

Final Rites For Joe Kennedy Planned Around Last Son

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—Former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy's funeral Mass today was planned around his only living son and his grandchildren.

The Mass was for the family and close friends, with burial to follow in the family plot at Holy-hood Cemetery in Brookline, a Boston suburb.

Kennedy, father of President John F. Kennedy, died at his home here Tuesday at 81. A wealthy financier, he had served as U.S. ambassador to Britain from 1938 to 1940. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, like President Kennedy, the victim of an assassin's bullets, was another of the former diplomat's sons.

A family spokesman said the Mass in St. Francis Xavier church here would be "devoted to the grandchildren, some of whom never knew the ambassador until after he became ill" as the result of a stroke that incapacitated him eight years ago.

The role of celebrant was filled by Richard Cardinal Cushing, archbishop of Boston and a long-time family friend.

The family spokesman said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy would speak at the opening of the Mass in tribute to Ann Gargan, a niece, "to call attention to her great devotion and love for his father." She was the ambassador's constant companion from the time he suffered a stroke in 1961.

Kennedy also planned to read his own tribute, an excerpt from a privately published book, "The Flowering Bough," containing a collection of essays about the senior Kennedy, and to read a prayer written by the ambassador's widow, Rose.

Angry Police Are Aroused By Slaying

MILAN (AP)—Angry police demonstrated during the night in two Milan barracks following the death of a policeman and injury of 56 others during the general strike Wednesday. They threatened to go on a retaliatory jeep hunt for disorderly demonstrators, but their superiors talked them out of it.

The police say they are exhausted after overtime strike and riot duty and no days off during 2½ months of labor unrest. They complain of beatings and insults while on duty.

Besides Milan, there were disorders Wednesday in a dozen other cities from the Alps to Sicily as nearly 12 million Italians joined in the general strike press demands for more low-cost housing.

More than 100 persons were injured, statues were defaced, a town hall was burned and store windows were smashed. But many thousands held orderly demonstrations elsewhere, and millions used the warm sunny day for trips to the beach, the mountains or parks.

Extreme leftists called the riots that developed in a dozen cities "a general rehearsal for revolution" and said they were planning new disorders.

The country's three major labor federations blamed the violence on the police and told workers in Milan to stop work today and hold "on the spot assemblies" to discuss police conduct.

The policeman in Milan was killed when a thrown iron bar pierced the nape of his neck as he was driving a jeep. His was the seventh riot death in Italy in 11 months. The others were students and workers.

Pilot Of Plane Crash Fined $25

The pilot of a small plane that crashed in a field near Thomas A. Airport Monday evening, appeared before Judge Sterling Lamb in Municipal Court Wednesday.

Paul E. Walters, 28, of Route 2, was cited by Sheriff's Deputy Don Thompson for operating an aircraft in a careless manner. He was found guilty and fined $25. Judge Lamb also ordered him to make restitution for the power lines damaged in the accident.

Also bombed were the downtown offices of the Bank of London and South America and the Inter American Development Bank.

Wildcat Walkout Hits Toledo Plant

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Some 800 employees of the Midland-Ross Corp. plant here today continued to observe picket lines set up in a wildcat strike Wednesday by the United Automobile Workers.

Union officials have ordered the union members back to work, saying the strike is not authorized. The plant manufactures automobile frames.

Red Cross Plans Budget Revision

Three Pickaway County Chapter Red Cross board members have been assigned to revise the current budget and establish a permanent budget for the local chapter's operation.

Members appointed to serve on the committee by Howard Judd, chapter chairman, are John Harbaugh, chapter vice chairman; Eddie Reynolds, current treasurer for the chapter; and Mrs. Boyd Stout, board member.

Board members present at the Wednesday night meeting were advised of the letter received from Dean Dugger, administrative director of Central Ohio Red Cross Blood Center, who offered thanks and congratulations to those who planned, recruited or otherwise cooperated in the most successful Bloodmobile visit in Pickaway County Nov. 13. The county exceeded its quota for the first time in the history of the blood program here when 170 units were collected from 181 prospective donors placing the county at 110 percent of quota.

In addition, the local chapter received a citation from American National Red Cross "recognizing with gratitude the help given by Pickaway County Ohio Chapter for the victims of Hurricane Camille."

Mrs. Roloff Wolford, chapter executive secretary, reported service to 44 military families in the form of health and welfare, request for emergency leave, assistance for hardship discharge, death messages, miscellaneous counseling and loans.

It was announced that a workshop for safety services will be held Jan. 13 in Columbus to include both water safety and first aid and will involve program directors of those services.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Pickaway County Public Library has a section devoted to books for children. Volumes recently added to the Children's Library are reviewed here.

Remember, this is National Children's Book Week. Try to bring the children to the library so they may see the displays of old books and toys. Be sure to have them vote for their favorite story. They can cast their ballots right down the chimney of the storybook house. Climax of the week will be a story hour special read by Mrs. Donald Flieri, who has chosen her material from classical literature.

"What is a Whispersy Secret?" by Lois Hobart, illustrated by Martha Alexander. Whispersy pictures, delicate and wonderfully fanciful, bring to mind all sorts of secrets. Martha Alexander also did the pictures for "Grandfathers are to Love" and "Grandmothers are to Love", both considered classics already. This is a lovely book, both in text and pictures. "The Great Hamster Hunt" by Lenore Blegv. J. Hamsters are becoming very popular pets, and it's high time someone wrote a book about them. Nicholas wanted a hamster like Harvey, who belonged to his pal Tony. His mother said, "No." She did agree to his keeping Harvey while Tony was away on his vacation. On the very last day, Harvey ate his way out of his cage and the great hamster hunt was on. Nicholas' mother finally had to buy a substitute hamster who looked just like Harvey. Then, Harvey appeared from behind a shelf of books. Guess who got to keep the extra hamster? Grades 1-3.

"Cave of the Incas" by Lilla Watch. Exciting adventure, mystery, and even some archaeology are smoothly mixed in the "Cave of the Incas." Richard and Todd, whose fathers are employed in South America, are very busy boys. They do some unauthorized exploring and find an old Inca road, beautifully fitted with intricate stone work. It leads to an abandoned gold mine and some mighty suspicious characters. That's where the trouble starts. Good mystery for both boys and girls. Grades 4-6.

"Hello, Hippopotamus" by Eugene H. Hippopotomus. Eugene thinks he's ugly, even when he meets such animals as the rhino, the boar, and the ape. Then he meets a beautiful creature in a ruffled bathing suit. "Hello, Handsome," she says, in a sweet gentle voice. Eugene decides to grow up and to marry the pretty little hippo in the ruffled bathing suit. One of Eugene H. Hippopotomus' names is Robert Kraus. Grades 4-6.

Senate Asserts A Right

In an unusual step toward re-instituting its somewhat diminished influence in foreign affairs, the Senate by resolution has asked the President to make no final agreement on the return to Okinawa to Japan until he obtains the advice and consent of the Senate.

The resolution, introduced by Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr. of Virginia, specifically refers to the peace treaty signed between the United States and Japan which gave the U.S. trusteeship over Okinawa and other islands.

Presumably, since Senate approval was required for the treaty, any changes to the treaty also would require Senate action.

But there is somewhat of a precedent. The Amami and Bonin groups of islands, also covered by the treaty, were returned to Japanese control by executive decree, and the Senate made no attempt to assert its rights on that occasion.

Nevertheless, there is at least a political challenge in the resolution which the President can ill afford to ignore. It marks an unfortunate decline in the traditional cooperative arrangement provided in the Constitution between the Senate and the executive branch in the conduct of foreign affairs that senators find it necessary to pass such a resolution.

It is basically the upper chamber which is at fault in the current state of affairs, because for the most part senators have permitted their authority in this field to erode over the years without so much as a twinge of the eyebrow. Sen. Byrd is determined, and the Senate concurs, that the erosion shall be repaired.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

UNDERGOING a thorough check-up at a local hospital, a man was asked by a startled X-ray specialist, "Are you aware that there's a wrist watch ticking away in your stomach?" "Of course I am," the patient assured him. "I swallowed it four years ago." "But hasn't it ever given you trouble?" persisted the specialist. The patient shrugged. "Only when I wind it."

When a practical joke goes sour, the perpetrator is often unforgettably punished for his pains. Picture if you can the misery of the "joker" who took note of the fact that a sad-eyed little man had checked a single raw apple at a Broadway restaurant, imploring the attendant to take special care of it. The joker couldn't resist substituting a baked apple for the raw one. Next day he discovered that the little man's only young child had died an hour earlier in a hospital holding that raw apple in her hand and he was bringing it back to his grief-stricken, invalid wife as a last memento of their baby.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Our twin boys are almost six years old and seem to be living in a constant quarrel. Every time we interfere we seem to make matters worse. What should be the general attitude toward children of this age group?

Mr. and Mrs. G. B., Illinois Dear Mr. & Mrs. B.: A very astute psychologist once said to a group of parents, "if you live long enough children are great." At this stage I am certain that you are wondering if you will ever survive long enough to enjoy them. I would like to predict that they will eventually be a source of joy.

Children are born demanding and selfish and it takes time and patience to help them to understand the real meaning of sharing. Often this is the basis for sustained quarreling between brothers and sisters of different ages and between friends. Sometimes it takes greater patience and understanding to teach some children that there are rewards in learning to share and in being reasonable with others.

As for "general attitudes," parents must be consistent in the standards they set and children should feel that both parents are agreed on these standards. Children should be permitted to settle their differences themselves without too much interference by "reasoning" adults. It is astonishing how frequently children learn the meaning of fairness through play activity with other children. Parents must not assume that, by virtue of size and age, they are always right as arbitrators.

What is normal blood pressure for a young adult about to go into the army? Mr. D. U., Arizona Dear Mr. U.: Blood pressure readings depend on numerous factors and therefore it is impossible to state that one number is normal and another is abnormal. The age, the size of the body configuration and the weight are only a few of the variables that help the doctor in deciding if the blood pressure is "normal."

Readings can vary from day to day and even from minute to minute, depending on the emotions or tensions. There are two blood pressure readings. The first, or systolic, is the higher one and strangely, is less important than the second. The systolic reading represents the pressure within the arteries at the time the heart has contracted a great deal of blood into circulation. The second, or diastolic, pressure indicates the tension in the blood vessels while the heart is in between beats. This reading may be even more important than the first.

In general, the relationship between the two blood pressure readings is probably more important than either one alone. Numbers themselves have no importance to the patient. They are significant only to the physician who considers them in relation to his other clinical findings. An additional thought may be of interest. A sudden rise of blood pressure at the time of any army examination or at periods of stress is not unusual or dangerous.

Nixon Makes Hay

By JOHN CHAMBERAIN

When President Nixon put the Rockefeller Report on Latin America temporarily on ice, Sol Linowitz, Arthur Schlesinger Jr., and Richard Goodwin, all of whom were deeply involved in the old Kennedy-Johnson policies toward our southern neighbors, met at the Overseas Press Club in New York City to bemoan the secrecy. Evidently they thought something "liberal" was being suppressed. But now that the Rockefeller recommendations have been made public by an enthusiastic Nixon, the joke seems to be on Schlesinger and Company. Rocky, as it turns out, thinks political subversion — i.e., Castroism abetted by Soviet Communism — is the major problem in Latin America, which is not what the liberals have been saying.

Curiously, the roof hasn't fallen in on Nixon and Rockefeller in the countries below the border. Mr. Nixon, in fact, has improved his own image among the Latinos by a good margin. His speech recommending preferential treatment for Latin American exports to the U.S. if the other major industrial nations of the world won't go along with general tariff reduction designed to help all the undeveloped nations was a courageous, positive act. When he was just a traveling Vice President, Nixon had no charisma in Latin America; he was not only stoned and spat upon, he was laughed at. John F. Kennedy, who never did anything very concrete for any Latin country, was much more popular. But the Latinos respect a man who knows where he is going. Nixon has suddenly emerged as a person of clear outline. He is not making any great promises, but the Latinos now know where he — and the government in Washington — stand.

Actually, tariff preferences if and when they come into being, won't radically improve things in Latin America. The big Latin exports are coffee, cocoa, bananas, beef, oil and copper, which are not taxed at the ports of entry in the developed countries. Venezuela doesn't need U.S. preferential tariff reduction; it needs bigger quotas for its oil. Mr. Nixon didn't press that particular subject.

What Latin America needs, above all, is political stability. The Kennedy-Johnson policy was to try to buy such stability by making government — to government loans: U.S. public investment in the Latin countries comes to some $10 billion. (Our private Latin investment is — or was, before the last expropriations — $11 billion). The local private investors manifestly don't like what the governments do with the public money sent from the U.S. to soothe the demands of the "in" politicians. The more public money that Chile, for example, gets, the further to the left do the Christian Democrats go. So the local capitalists send their own fortunes to Miami banks for safekeeping.

Since John F. Kennedy started the Alliance for Progress, the Latin Americans have sent $12 billion out of their own countries. There is even a scandal in Venezuela about the local rage for purchasing overseas mutual funds. Some three million dollars in private local capital went out from Bolivia within a week of the government's expropriation of the Gulf Oil properties.

President Nixon can't very well tell Peru and Bolivia how to run their affairs. But he has indicated that he will not try to force any great new grants of public money on the "nascent" colonies who think foreign investments are fair game.

Not so long ago the Peruvian government was complaining that foreign private investments in Peru constituted an "insult." Now, after Nixon's speech, Brazilian papers such as Estado de Brasil in Sao Paulo are printing editorials offering their mock congratulations to Peru and Bolivia for being relieved of the necessity of accepting any more of those capitalistic "insults."

In offering tariff preferences, Mr. Nixon has signaled to Latin America that they will find a favorable export climate if they choose to go ahead with the creation of light industries. If Nixon can carry Congress with him in enacting the new policy, El Salvador can look forward to a northern market for its shoes, Mexico and Panama for textiles, Peru for llama rugs. The business would not be sufficient at the start to worry U.S. manufacturers, for the preferential treatment of Latin American light industrial goods would come initially at the expense of the more bothersome exporters in Hong Kong and Japan.

Anyway, Mr. Nixon has made friends in Latin America. Now if he will only help the Cubans to get rid of their incubus, Fidel Castro, who is the main enemy of political stability everywhere below the border.

Sperry Rand Plans Expansion

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Sperry Rand Corp. announced it will expand its plant at Lebanon and double its operations there.

The announcement came at a press conference in the office of Gov. James A. Rhodes. Ohio Neuwander, called it "a progressive step for Warren County and the state of Ohio."

T. W. Dohl, Sperry Rand division manager, said the expansion was scheduled for completion in May, 1970.

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — They say travel is broadening, and I'll add my weight to that statement.

What I'd really like to do, though, is subtract all the weight I gained on a recent automobile trip to the South.

We went through 10 states and 28 flavors of ice cream. The car got good mileage but I can't say the same for its occupants. While we could go nearly 200 miles on a three-course breakfast, we only got about 75 miles to the cup of coffee.

But the many stops for snacks were just practice to get us in shape for the real eating that got us out of shape.

It isn't only the army that travels on its stomach. When my husband said, "Fill 'er up," he wasn't talking to the service station attendant about the car — he was talking to the waitress about me.

Although the interstate highways are a boon to those in a hurry, to me their greatest drawback is the fact that there are no eating establishments on them — not even a frozen custard stand. We're not concerned with getting there faster — we just want to get there faster — so we stick mainly to the more interesting roads that provide something to see as well as something to eat.

There were times, of course, when we were forced to make up in quantity what the viands lacked in quality. But we've discovered that the number of local cars parked outside an eating house is indicative of the kind of meals being dispensed inside.

Still, it's risky business and we drove miles out of our way to munch lunch at a place we remembered with fondness from a previous trip. Surprisingly, they were still putting out fine fare.

Once we got below the Mason-Dixon line, we heeded the admonition: "When in the South, do as the Southerners do." And what the Southerners do is eat huge helpings of fried chicken and gravy, baskets of buttered biscuits and sticky slabs of pecan pie. As patriotic instant Southerners we did the same.

We're back home again, with wallets thinner and waistslines thicker. Now it's time to go to work — to fatten the former and reduce the latter.

NEW YORK (AP) — The interweaving of economic relationships is such that, curious as it may seem, there is a direct link between the black revolt in the United States and the stability of the international banking system.

The relationship goes something like this:

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Anonymous letters and those signed with the request that signatures be withheld will not be accepted for publication. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Editor: I would like to show my appreciation to Harold Hewitt and the staff of employees at the Pickaway YMCA. I want to say thanks to the YMCA for taking me on the football game trip last Saturday.

It's not every day someone shows an interest toward the handicapped. My thanks also go out to Dan Young for his spiritual approach toward old and young alike.

Again let me say thanks to Mr. Hewitt for his kindness and thoughtfulness.

Dear Editor:

When Richard Nixon ran for the presidency against Jack Kennedy, and lost, he said in his parting statements to newsmen and in front of TV cameras that they would never get a chance to ride him again.

By so saying, it was understood that he would never run for political office again.

It is obvious that Mr. Nixon does not always mean what he says.

I certainly hope such is not true for those promises he made to end the war in Vietnam.

The least needed at the helm of this country is an opportunist.

Dear Editor:

To the citizens of Westfall School District:

Now that the election is over, I would like to thank you the voters for your support.

During an election campaign a school system is subject to many criticisms and I would like to bring out a few of the good points of our system. One of my first observations while on the board, was the effect a principal has on the students and faculty he heads.

The Westfall system, in my opinion, has five of the best men in the state filling these positions.

The leadership and cooperation they instill have kept our schools running very efficiently. A large part of every board meeting is devoted to paying bills and discussing the financial status.

The one person who is indispensable to a school board is the clerk.

We are fortunate to have a full-time clerk at Westfall who can, at any time, give a taxpayer in our district a clear picture of our finances. He presents a complete summary at each regular board meeting. A serious problem could have been averted in a Ross County school had this procedure been followed.

The vocational agricultural department has been a great asset to our agricultural community.

Of great value is our athletics program, especially the young men working with our elementary children. These people deserve our appreciation.

The elementary, junior high and high school teachers that give that little bit extra to help our children.

The men and women who drive our children to and from school in fog, rain and snow and deliver them safely.

The ladies who prepare a hot lunch for them. The custodians, who sometimes work under adverse conditions to keep our buildings in order.

The secretaries who work with the principals, sometimes lending a helping hand wherever needed.

Last, but not least, the man who must coordinate all and make it run smoothly, the Executive Head of our district.

The point I want to make is this, that which is most obvious is sometimes the hardest to see.

Our Westfall school system is doing a remarkable job preparing our children to become our citizens of the future.

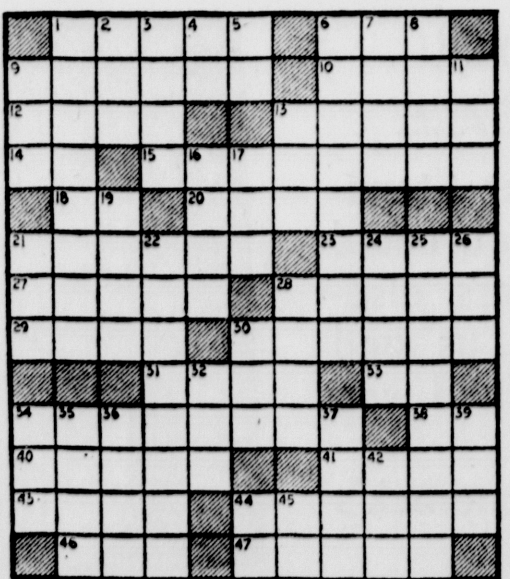

Again thanks to all who supported me. It has been a privilege to have represented you.

Tradition-Linked Pubs Are Popular With Englishmen

By JOSEPH WHITT
Central Press Association
Correspondent

LONDON — Englishmen love their pubs, especially those linked to some tradition. Yearly they drink more than 30 million barrels of beer in 75,000 pubs, but it is the pub associated with a famous person or event that really draws in the customers.

The Sherlock Holmes, named after the great fictional detective, attracts tourists as well as Londoners. It contains mementos of Holmes' life — old prints depicting his cases, a "portrait" of "Dr. Watson," and even the head of the hound of the Baskervilles.

The West Arms, in Wales, contains an object more likely to be found in a church than in a pub — a confessional box.

"It's origin is obscure," said the landlord (a British term for the keeper of a pub), "but it is at least 200 years old. It's no longer used as a confessional, but people like to use it for a chat."

The Castle, also in Wales, is well-known because of a bed — a four-poster, half-canopy bed in which Lord Nelson and Lady Hamilton slept in 1802.

Food and drink also make pubs popular. The United Kingdom sandwich record belongs to the Shoulder of Mutton, in Essex. The landlord's daughter said, "We serve 300 different varieties of sandwiches. Our biggest one consists of a fried egg, chicken, toasted cheese, tomato and ham."

The Admiral Codrington, in Chelsea, stocks 110 different brands of whiskey. "So far as I know that's the British record," the landlord said. "Happily nobody has challenged us by trying to drink his way through them."

A Buckinghamshire pub has a reputation of serving the strongest beer in the country. The smooth, dark beer is especially brewed for the Royal Standard.

Said the landlord, a former sailor, "Sample a pint and your head'll spin. People come here from miles around, but we limit our customers to two pints."

The pub with the most horrible history, also in Buckinghamshire, is the 450-year-old Ostrich. In the seventeenth century the landlord of the pub murdered 60 guests.

"After the guests had spent an evening drinking and then had gone to bed," said the present landlord, "the landlord used a special device that spilled the guests from their beds into a tub of boiling water."

President Approves Funds For Space

WASHINGTON (AP) — As Apollo 12 astronauts walked on the moon, the financial future of Apollo 13, 14 and 15 were assured by President Nixon.

The President signed Wednesday a bill authorizing $3.7 billion for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. It includes funds for three more manned moon flights in the next nine months.

Mrs. Kennedy Holds Up In Sorrow

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — "I don't intend to be laid low or pulverized," Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy once told an interviewer. "If I collapsed, the moral of the family would suffer."

With that same unbending determination to carry through, Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy buries her husband of 55 years today.

Every aspect of the funeral bears her unmistakable touch. The white funeral Mass at the tiny Roman Catholic church in Hyannis was of Rose's choosing. A family spokesman said she wished the service to emphasize the joy of resurrection rather than the sorrow of death.

Deeply religious, she recently responded with a direct answer to a question that baffled many others.

"What sustains you?" someone asked.

"I think God has given us a lot of joy as well as ordeals," was her solemn and unhesitating reply. "I have had faith. I believe that our lives are destined for a certain role, a certain commitment God has given us. And I shall follow it."

Perhaps her greatest tribute is her own motto, from John Bunyan's Pilgrim's Way:

"I know not age, nor weariness, nor defeat."

On Sunday a family dinner was held at the Wardell Home where relatives helped Debbie and Mike celebrate.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Sweet spent several days visiting friends in Bowling Green and Perrysburg, and visited relatives in Toledo.

HEAD OF KENNEDY CLAN — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, walking on the beach at Hyannis Port, Mass., is the last surviving son of former U.S. Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, and became head of one of the nation's most prominent political families when his father died.

"They were then robbed and their bodies thrown into the river. All that remains now is the model of his murderous device."

Said a British travel official, "Our pubs add up to Britain's greatest tourist attraction."

Dillon Becomes Head Of Famed Museum Of Art

NEW YORK (AP)—C. Douglas Dillon, an investment banker who was secretary of the Treasury in the Kennedy administration, takes over as president of the Metropolitan Museum of Art Jan. 1.

The museum announced Wednesday that Dillon had been elected to succeed Arthur A. Houghton Jr., president of Steuben Glass and the Met's president since 1964. Houghton was elected chairman of the board.

Dillon, an art patron and collector who has been a museum trustee since 1951, was elected a vice president last year. He is expected to play a key role in helping the Met improve its financial position.

The Met is the nation's richest museum, but faces a deficit. It is celebrating its centennial year with a series of special exhibitions, and has begun an extensive building program and expanded its educational activities.

Schools Slate 'Crash Pads' For Students Using Drugs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Students under the influence of dangerous drugs will soon have "crash pads" for emergency treatment available just down the hall from their classrooms in four high schools.

Some teen-agers come to classes so "freaked out" on mind-bending drugs they can't move, much less sit up straight in class, says Dr. J.M. Stubblebine, chief of community mental health services and originator of the program.

The Board of Education and the city Health Department laid the groundwork Wednesday for the program to be operating in about 10 days. The estimated $115,000 annual cost will be borne by the Health Department.

Each "pad" will be staffed by a nurse, a psychiatric technician, and several student aides.

"For the first time a youngster under the influence of drugs while at school can be treated—without fear of reprisal—at school with no questions asked," Dr. Stubblebine explained.

"We're not preachers. In this case we are amoral. We just want to treat them and educate them without their being afraid. The school is a familiar place to kids. We want the word to get around that the 'crash pad' is an okay place to go when the student is on a bad trip."

Dr. Robert E. Jenkins, president of the Board of Education, said the program has the full support of Police Chief Thomas Cahill. "The police are not going to be asking 'crash pad' patients anything, and neither are we," Jenkins said. "The kids need a place to be treated and that's what they'll get."

Caspar Weinberger Gets Confirmation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Caspar W. Weinberger, San Francisco lawyer, was confirmed by the Senate Wednesday as chairman of the Federal Trade Commission.

Weinberger, who was California director of finance and a former state assemblyman, will succeed Paul Rand Dixon.

Military Wants Okinawa Kept As Atom Base

Expect Nixon, Sato To Make Special Arrangements

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has told President Nixon giving up Okinawa as a nuclear base would seriously degrade the U.S. deterrent against aggression in the Pacific by such countries as Red China.

Defense officials, reporting this, say they expect some "special arrangement" to emerge from this week's discussions between Nixon and Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato over Okinawa's expected reversion to Tokyo's control in 1972.

The arrangement, presumably would permit U.S. use of Okinawa—seized by the United States from Japan in World War II—as a nuclear springboard in case of extreme crisis in the Western Pacific.

An official communicate reporting the result of the three days of meeting is scheduled Friday.

While the State Department wants an agreement politically acceptable to Sato's anti-nuclear opponents back home, Pentagon officials have been approaching the matter more from a strict U.S. security standpoint.

"The military significance of Okinawa would change drastically if we lost 'free use' of the island," a defense official said.

Defense officials won't talk about where nuclear weapons are stored but acknowledge that they are covered under the term "free use."

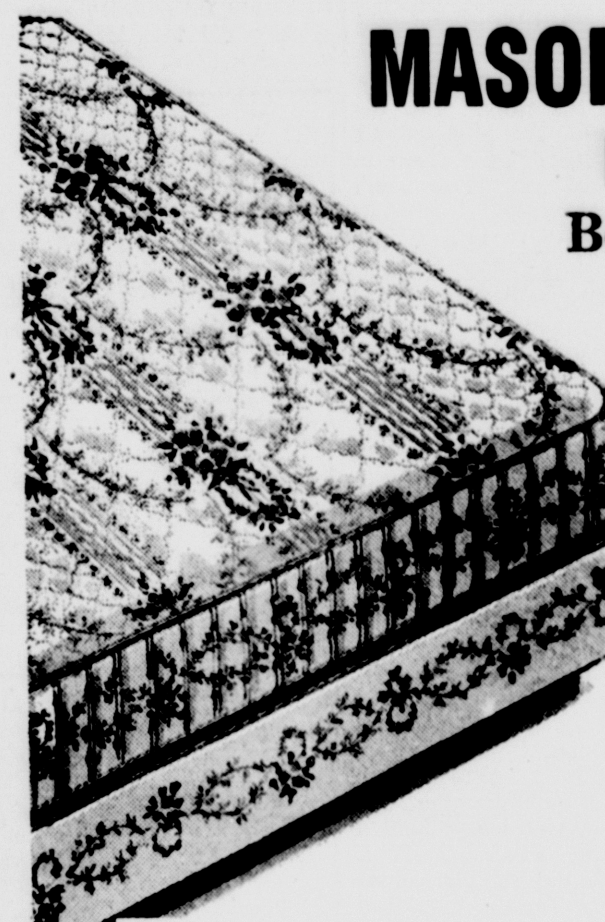

The defense officials regard Okinawa as a "fantastic" military complex which places U.S. deterrent forces within 1,500 miles of such potentially hostile nations as Red China, North Korea, and North Vietnam.

"It is important for its deterrent value, the other fellows' knowing we can use it anytime," as one official put it.

Cleveland Resident Under Indictment

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Joseph "Big Pepi" Sarli Sr. was indicted Tuesday by a grand jury for intimidation of four witnesses in his son's first-degree murder trial.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Bachelor Shouldn't Fuss Over Whispers

DEAR ABBY: Although I've never seen my problem in your column, I'm sure other men have had it, too.

I am 41, and a bachelor. Believe me, Abby, I enjoy the company of women, but it seems that in this day and age any man who is still a bachelor at 40 is immediately suspected of being a homosexual.

I actually find myself holding hands with my date, hugging her, and acting affectionate, even when she doesn't appeal to me in that way, just to let on-lookers know I'm normal and to "reassure" my date. (Many women think if they don't turn a man on, he must be queer.)

When I go to dinner or to a movie with another man, I get all sorts of funny looks. And I've heard people have said that the only reason I date women is to cover up my preference for men.

I have my reasons for not wanting to marry. I like my privacy, don't care for the responsibilities of marriage, can't stand children, and frankly I am very selfish and would make a lousy husband.

So, how does a normal man go about proving to the world that he's not queer?

STRAIGHT MAN DEAR STRAIGHT: First, he quits protesting too much. Then he doesn't make a phony fuss over women who don't turn him on. And lastly, he doesn't give a second thought to what people say.

DEAR ABBY: I am 25 and a graduate student at Berkeley. A month ago my sister came out here to visit me, and she reported back to my mother

Judge Denies Ruling Voided Ohio 'Implied Consent' Law

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — An appellate court judge said Tuesday the "significance" of his ruling on two cases involving Ohio's "implied consent" law was his declaration that "the purpose of the law is to aid courts in determining the intoxication or sobriety of defendants."

And under certain circumstances, said Judge Calvin Crawford of the 2nd Court of Appeals, the implied consent provision serves no useful purpose.

The law says anyone who obtains an Ohio driver's license automatically consents to take a chemical test if stopped on suspicion of drunk driving. Refusal to take a test brings an automatic six month suspension of the driver's license.

In the cases on which he ruled Tuesday, Crawford said, both drivers pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated when they appeared in court on the charges.

One had refused to take a chemical test and the other neither consented nor refused.

But Crawford said the fact that they pleaded guilty eliminated the need of a chemical test to determine their guilt. He therefore overturned the Registrar of Motor Vehicles' suspension of their licenses.

"I didn't pass on the validity of the law," Crawford said.

Earlier, the court ruling had appeared to be a complete denial of the law's provisions.

In his ruling, the court said the law was "very drastic" because it permits an agency to operate a court.

He explained later that when the automatic suspension is imposed even after a defendant pleads guilty, the court has two suspensions in conflict. "The administrative agency would be encroaching on the jurisdiction of the court," he said.

Shelby Hutchins, chief counsel for Atty. Gen. Paul Brown in Columbus, said the court's ruling coincides with the attorney general's conclusions on drivers who plead guilty after

Rogers Studies Peking Attitudes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers says he sees "a prospect that our relations in the future might be improved" with Communist China.

Rogers said Tuesday night there is no real evidence that leaders in Peking are ready to respond to new U.S. initiatives, but "they at least were not reacting negatively."

Appearing on a CBS special report on relations among Red China, Russia and the United States, Rogers said the Nixon administration hoped to improve communications and trade relations with China.

Refusing to take the test.

Eventually, Hutchins said, the Ohio Supreme Court probably will be asked to rule on the law.

Hanoi Paper Says POWs Like Nazis

HONG KONG (AP) — North Vietnam's official newspaper compared U.S. pilots captured in Vietnam to World War II war criminals tried at Nuremberg, Germany, and declared they were not entitled to the protection of the Geneva agreement on treatment of prisoners of war.

Despite that, the newspaper Nhan Dan said, American pilots shot down and captured in North Vietnam "have been and are being humanely treated by the government of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam." This is the North's official name.

Nhan Dan, in a Vietnamese-language commentary broadcast by Radio Hanoi, said the captured pilots were "caught bloody-handed while committing war crimes of the gravest nature against the people and the territory of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam."

It accused the United States of trying to "blacken the name of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and sway international and American public opinion by bringing up the matter of the Geneva agreement which is totally and completely without basis."

"When our nation participated in the 1949 Geneva session on treatment of prisoners of war," Nhan Dan continued, "our nation declared that POWs found guilty of grave crimes against mankind in accordance with the principles of the Nuremberg Court of Justice are not to be accorded the enjoyment of the 1949 Geneva agreement as stated in Article 65."

"The U.S. marauder pilots," Nhan Dan repeated, "are guilty of grave crimes and belong to the legal authority and jurisdiction of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam—an independent nation with national sovereignty and the right to try those guilty of crimes against it."

Next Apollo Crew Eves Moon Landing

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Among those watching man's second moon landing from Mission Control were the men who will make the third moon landing.

Apollo 13 commander James A. Lovell Jr. and his crewmates, Thomas K. Mattingly II and Fred W. Haise Jr., sat at consoles at Mission Control as Apollo 12 landed on the moon.

The Apollo 13 moon flight is scheduled for next March. It is to land at Fra Mauro, a crater the Apollo 12 crew will survey from moon orbit after they leave the lunar surface.

Lovell has spent more time in space than any other human. He was on the 14-day Gemini 7 mission in 1965, the four-day Gemini 12 flight in 1966 and the Apollo 8 moon-circling flight last December.

Mattingly and Haise are both space rookies.

Lovell and Haise will land on the moon while Mattingly orbits alone in the command ship.

MASSACRE WORD — Ronald Ridenhour, 23, shown at his studies at Claremont College, Claremont, Calif., is the ex-GI who wrote letters to Washington officials, including President Nixon, charging that in March 1968 a U.S. force massacred more than 500 South Vietnamese men, women and children.

Menninger Raps Ohio Penal System

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "There are ways of controlling men with angry impulses, but not the medieval way," Dr. Karl Menninger said Wednesday in criticizing Ohio's penal system.

Menninger, co-founder of the Menninger Foundation in Topeka, Kan., spoke to the Mental Health and Retardation Institute.

He said penitentiaries were first conceived as places where wrongdoers could be penitent, but the idea has been made grotesque.

While some states have made great strides in the treatment of prisoners, he said, Ohio has maintained "medieval" ideas.

He singled out California, Minnesota and Wisconsin as being "way ahead" of Ohio as states that have refined their systems.

Menninger said in 1948 Ohio was ranked 40th in the country while his own state of Kansas was 7th in the treatment of prisoners. Today, Kansas is among the leading states in prisoner treatment, he said.

Any improvement will take money, he said. "But we're wasting money now."

The author of "The Crime of Punishment" said people should care about what happens in prisons, because of their own self interest and their humanitarian impulses.

"Politicians themselves don't know about these things, and prisoners don't have many influential alumni," Menninger said.

Primitive peoples prized colorful cowries from the tropical waters of the Indian and Pacific Oceans for decoration and good luck. Given to a bride, they guaranteed offspring; attached to fishing nets, they promised a good catch.

Mother Protects Baby Gorilla

CHICAGO (AP) — A gorilla was born in the Lincoln Park Zoo Tuesday but its mother, Alpha, 9 years old, let out a protective roar when zookeepers tried to get near enough to weigh the youngster.

Zoo officials said Alpha was so persistent in keeping them away that they couldn't even learn the baby's sex. They said it was smaller than most newborn humans.

Alpha and the father, Omega, 6 years old, are lowland gorillas, a species native to the West Coast of Africa.

Judge Approves Youth's Mustache

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Harvey Slomovitz is returning to high school with his mustache intact after a federal judge Tuesday granted a preliminary injunction restraining school officials from suspending the 17-year-old.

U.S. District Court Judge Ben C. Green's ruling was to remain effective until a trial ruling is made. Slomovitz, a sophomore from suburban South Euclid, has been suspended twice for wearing the mustache to school and refusing to shave it.

Solon Rips Nixon Men

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressman has called for dismissal of two administration officials, contending they want the nation's press to give President Nixon "the objective coverage that Kosygin can expect from Pravda."

Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Mich., said Tuesday he asked Nixon to fire Herbert G. Klein, director of communications, and newly appointed Chairman Dean Burch of the Federal Communications Commission.

His charge the pair had made "direct assaults on the constitutional guarantees of a free press" came after Burch was questioned by a House subcommittee about calls he made to national television networks requesting transcripts of commentators' reaction to Nixon's Nov. 3 Vietnam policy speech.

Burch said his requests were not an attempt "to intimidate anybody."

O'Hara said Klein's weekend comment the networks and all news media invited government examination if they do not examine themselves was an "explicit threat." Klein said at the time, however, he opposed government intervention.

Painesville Man Admits Theft

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Painesville coin and stamp shop owner Hy Brown admitted Wednesday in U. S. District Court that he received $22,320 worth of stolen postage stamps from the Bowling Green post office.

Sentencing on Brown, 53, was delayed by Judge William K. Thomas. Brown's wife, Freda, faces the same charges. She has denied receiving the stolen stamps.

The couple was arrested by U.S. postal inspectors last July. Officials said the couple was loading the stolen stamps into the trunk of their car when arrested and described the couple as "kingpins" in a large-scale burglary and fencing operation.

Mason Teachers Return To Work

MASON, Ohio (AP) — Mason's public schools were "back in business" Wednesday as teachers returned to their classrooms after two "professional days" in which they stayed away in support of salary increase demands.

David Frey, school superintendent, said "we're back in business and as far as I know, all teachers are working except two or three who are ill."

As many as 82 of 86 teachers in the system stayed away from classes as part of the "professional" days. About 2,200 pupils were sent home.

Confiscate Gun From Air Passenger

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Police arrested Donald K. Murray, 18, and Larry Bradshaw, 19, both from Washington, D.C., aboard a Northwest Orient Airlines plane Tuesday night after one of the youths reportedly was spotted carrying a gun.

Police at Cleveland Hopkins International Airport said they confiscated a .38-caliber snub-nosed revolver which Murray was carrying in a shoulder holster.

Shultz also suggested a general council for agriculture, also appointed by the president, should have responsibility for agricultural labor matters and for administering a field staff consisting of regional directors and regional attorneys for agriculture.

"This machinery would provide the specialized talent needed to administer a new farm labor policy," he said.

Coverage should be confined, he added, to include only farms employing more than 500 man-days of labor during the peak quarter of the previous season. The meeting moved into busi-

Earlier Wednesday, convention delegates heard Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz suggest that a labor relations board be established to handle labor matters for farm workers.

He proposed that the board be made up of three presidential appointees and be responsible for conducting elections, making bargaining determinations and handling allegations of unfair labor practices. The proposed board would

Firemen Spark City Hall Fire

BEVERLY, Ohio (AP) — The traditional fire engine red spread to the faces of the Beverly volunteer fire department members last Sunday.

The firemen accidentally set fire to the village hall and caused damage estimated at more than $2,000.

They had been remodeling the old jail section of the hall and had left when a spark from a torch they were using to cut steel bars started the blaze.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's steadily growing agriculture business is making a significant contribution to the state's economy, Gov. James A. Rhodes said Wednesday night.

Speaking at the 51st annual meeting of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, Rhodes said

Arab-Israeli Border Duel Flares Again

TEL AVIV (AP) — Arab guerrillas fired bazookas and mortars during the night at five Israeli army positions or settlements on the Jordanian and Syrian frontiers, but Israeli counter fire was believed to have killed five guerrillas, reliable sources said today.

No Israeli casualties were reported.

The five Arabs were believed killed in a clash with an army patrol near Geshar, in the Jordan Valley about 10 miles south of the Sea of Galilee.

A former prisoner in Iraq reported in Beirut that eight more Iraqis have been executed secretly in Baghdad after being convicted of spying for Israel. He said six were hanged in late September, and two early in October, and that one was a Jew.

The source also reported that Abdul Rahman Bazzaz, Iraq's prime minister in 1965-66 and the Iraqi ambassador to Britain for two years before, has been jailed for 30 years on charges of plotting to overthrow the country's leftist regime.

In Jerusalem, the arson trial of Denis Michael Rohan neared its end, and Israel's attorney general asked the court to convict the 28-year-old Australian on charges of arson and desecration of a holy place.

Atty. Gen. Meir Shamgar said he did not challenge the defense claim that the 28-year-old Australian was mentally ill when he set fire to the Al Aksah Mosque in Jerusalem. But he said Rohan was still criminally liable under Israeli law.

The maximum sentence on the two charges is 22 years.

The trial adjourned until Monday, when defense attorney Yitzhak Tunik will sum up the defense case.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A strike at The Plain Dealer and The Press was averted late Wednesday night when representatives of the two newspapers reached agreement with Cleveland Newspaper Pressmen's Local 5.

The settlement reportedly provides a $50 package increase, including fringe benefits, over a three-year period for the 240 pressmen at the two papers.

Ex - Army Photographer Shows Pictures Of U.S. 'Atrocity'

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) A former Army photographer, Ronald L. Haeberle, has produced photographs which he says show South Vietnamese men, women and children who were slaughtered by U.S. Army troops March 16, 1968.

The 28-year-old Haeberle also gave a vivid description of the shootings he said took place at the hamlet of My Lai Nov. 4.

He told of GIs coldly machine-gunning a man and two children while one of the children pleaded for mercy and of seeing other unarmed civilians shot down by GIs with M16s and M79 grenade launchers.

In a copyright story published in today's Cleveland Plain Dealer, Haeberle, of Cleveland, told of seeing as many as 100 Vietnamese civilians killed by a group of about 30 GIs.

Haeberle said he turned copies of the photographs and a statement of what he saw over to Army investigators in August.

The Army has charged 1st Lt. William L. Calley, 26, of Miami, Fla., and S. Sgt. David Mitchell, 29, of St. Francisville, La., intent to murder, respectively.

Haeberle said he had been stationed at Duc Pho and was flown by helicopter to join C Company, 1st Battalion, 20th Infantry Regiment, 11th Light Infantry Brigade at dawn on March 16 before the company entered the hamlet.

"No one really explained the mission," Haeberle said, "but from what I heard from the men it was suspected that these villagers were Viet Cong sympathizers and it was thought there were Viet Cong there."

He said while he was still outside the village he saw some South Vietnamese people, "maybe 14 of them, women and children included, walking on a dirt road maybe 100 yards away. All of a sudden the GIs just opened up with M16s. Besides the M16 fire, they were shooting at the people with M79 grenade launchers. I couldn't believe what I was seeing.

"Off to the right," he continued, "I noticed a woman appeared from some cover, and this one GI fired first at her, then they all started shooting at her, aiming at her head. The bones were flying in the air chip by chip. I'd never seen Americans shoot civilians like that."

"As they moved in closer to the village, they just kept shooting at people. I remember this man distinctly, holding a small child in one arm and another child in the other, walking toward us. They saw us and were pleading. The little girl was saying, 'No, no' in English. Then all of a sudden a burst of fire and they were cut down. They were about 20 feet away. One machine gunner did it. He'd opened up."

"There was no reaction from the guy doing the shooting. That's the part that really got me—this little girl pleading and they were just cut down."

"Then some GIs went over to a pile where there were four people, and this one GI leaned over a guy who was still alive and finished him."

"There were two small children, a very young boy and a smaller boy, maybe 4 or 5 years old. A guy with an M16 fired at them, at the first boy, and the older boy fell over to protect the smaller boy. The GI fired some more shots with a tracer, and the tip somehow seemed to be still burning the boy's flesh. Then they fired six more shots and just let them lie."

"I had emotional feelings. I felt nauseated to see people treated this way. American GIs were supposed to be protecting people and rehabilitating them and I had seen that. But this was incredible. I watched it, and it wouldn't sink in."

"I left the village around 11 o'clock that morning. I saw clumps of bodies, and I must have seen as many as 100 killed. It was done very businesslike."

Haeberle said he later saw a news story on C Company's operation in the hamlet, listing a large number of Viet Cong killed.

The Plain Dealer said an Army attorney with the adjutant general's office at Ft. Benning, Ga., had confirmed that Haeberle was present in the hamlet as an Army photographer March 16, 1968.

Stiff Cold Hovers Over Eastern U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

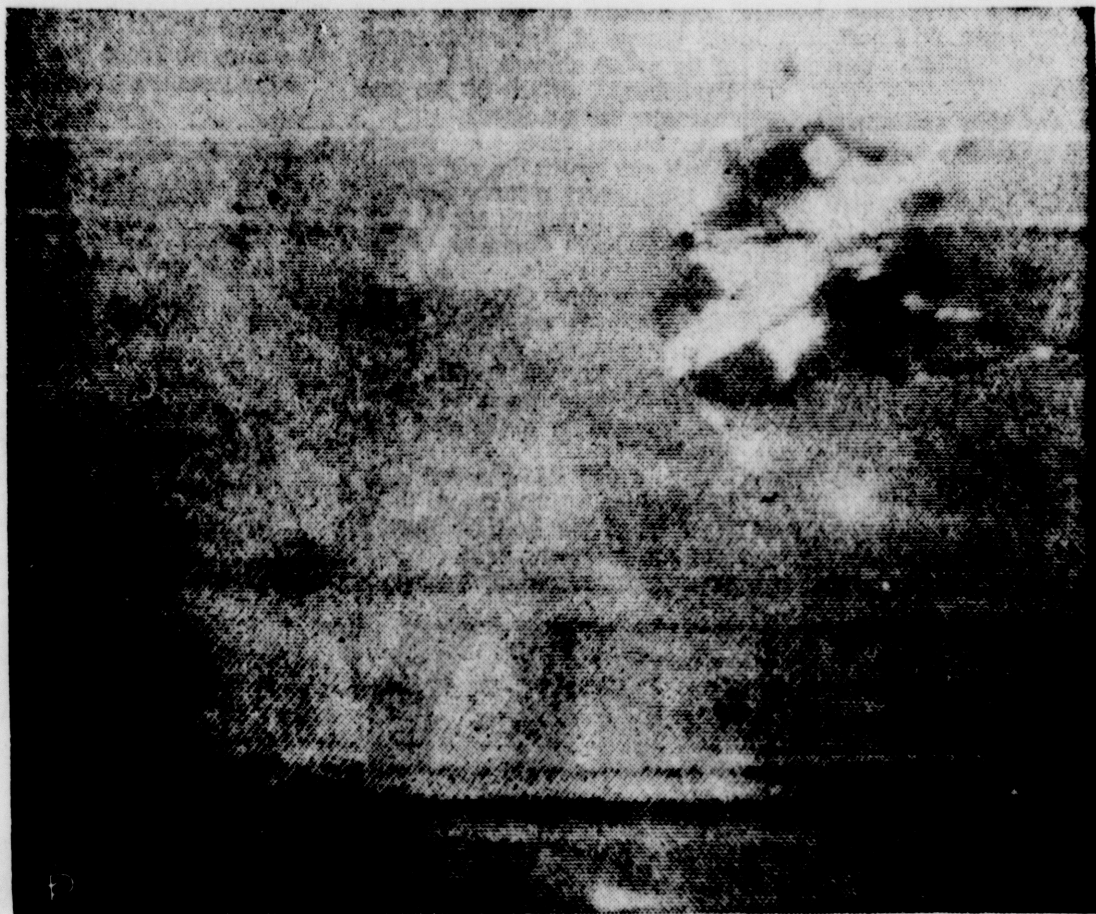

Arctic cold numbed much of the eastern half of the nation today and dropped temperatures well below freezing across a wide stretch of the Deep South. Snow, riding strong northerly winds, swept the Great Lakes region before dawn. Travelers were warned of possibly heavy snow along the lower lakes, in parts of Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York.

Temperatures settled to zero in the Northern Plains, into the teens over much of the Midwest and ranged down to the 20s from the lower Mississippi Valley through Georgia.

Rain soaked portions of New York and New England ahead of the cold front, then turned to snow as temperatures fell. More than an inch of rain washed Albany, N.Y., during the night.

Milder weather fanned through most of the nation from the Pacific to the central Plains, and clear skies were widespread.

Temperatures ranged from 2 above zero at Grand Forks, N.D., to 70 at Key West, Fla.

Scope Of Stroll On Moon Shown By Look At Route

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Here is a brief look at the winding, mile-long trek across the barren moonscape by the Apollo 12 astronauts on their second moonwalk Wednesday and today.

Setting out from their spaceship with a little map they drew, they followed Mission Control's directions and walked northwest 800 feet to their scientific experiments, picking up rocks and making photographs along the way.

To test the seismometer there, they rolled rocks down the wall of Head Crater and learned that the sounds could be picked up by the equipment and transmitted to earth.

Still selecting rocks, they walked south 800 feet along the west rim of Head Crater, descended about 60 feet down a small hill, and ended up at Bench Crater. There they found bedrock, which they said appeared to have things melted over it.

Southwest about 500 feet was Sharp Crater where they took panoramic pictures and dug a trench to check the dirt. They also took an eight-inch core sample of the soil.

Swinging east in a 1,400-foot arc to Halo Crater, they climbed a gentle hill about 30 feet high. That's where the handle of their camera broke off.

More rocks, more pictures.

After a brief rest, they went on northeast and descended into the Surveyor Crater, where they took another core sampling and stripped some parts off the craft—a television camera, cable, aluminum tubing—to take back home for tests.

Climbing up the north wall, they proceeded to Block Crater, a tiny crater on the north lip where the Surveyor is, and from there back to Intrepid, about 450 feet.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Television networks, like space travelers, are prepared for emergencies and they used their backup systems Wednesday when the Apollo 12 TV camera quit apparently as a result of being pointed directly at the sun by mistake.

Viewers did see the blurry figure of astronaut Charles Conrad Jr. cautiously climbing down the ladder of the landing craft and taking that step onto the moon's surface shortly before 7 a.m. EST. He was followed about a half hour later by Alan L. Bean.

Since the camera was not focused on the moon surface before it failed, viewers saw little. Long after the picture disappeared, the reporters on the three networks kept a running commentary on the men's activities as the screens showed a black and white design.

Eventually, the networks turned to simulations to keep up with the activity on the moon.

Fire, Police Academy Has No Staffers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State officials have $3 million to build a fire and police academy but no one to run it.

A bond issue approved by voters last year provided $3 million for the facility.

State Finance Director Howard Collier noted a bill creating a Department of Public Safety, with authority to build and operate the academy, was carried over from the last legislature to the next which meets in February.

"The only question now is what agency should be responsible for building and running the academy," Collier said.

Collier said he has not talked with anyone about the facility but said the money is appropriated. The only problem now, he said, is the procedural one of assigning the facility to some state agency for administration and operation.

John McElroy, aide to Gov. James A. Rhodes, said he has heard London mentioned as a possible site for the academy. He said other sites may be under consideration but "I've heard no other places mentioned."

Senate Passes Bill On Draft Lottery

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed today a bill opening the way for the use of a lottery system to select draftees and sent it to President Nixon.

Nixon asked for the action as part of his draft reform plan. The bill was approved by a voice vote.

Social Security Answers

Q. Can I get wife's benefits when my ex-husband begins drawing his social security retirement or disability benefits?

A. Yes, if you are 62, have not remarried and meet certain support requirements.

Q. What happens to my widow's benefit if I remarry?

A. This depends on whether you are under 60 with children or over 60. If you are under 60 and caring for a child also entitled to benefits, your benefits generally stop when you remarry (but the child's benefits continue). However, if you marry another social security beneficiary (except one entitled to payments as a child under 18 or as a full-time student under 22) your benefits would continue.

If you are 60 or older — benefits continue even if you remarry. If your new husband is not a social security beneficiary, you will collect a monthly payment equal to one-half of your deceased husband's retirement benefit. If your new husband is receiving retirement or disability benefits, you will get either the wife's benefit on his record or the adjusted widow's benefit, whichever is larger. If your new husband is entitled to benefits as a dependent widower, parent, or as a person disabled in childhood, the amount of your widow's benefit will continue to be the same.

Q. I've been collecting social security for five years now and my social security checks have always arrived right on time. But I'm planning to give up my apartment and move in with my daughter next month. What should I do to make sure that the checks keep coming on the third of the month?

A. Be sure to notify the Social Security Administration of your change of address as early as possible. If you get the notice in before the 15th of the month, your next check can probably be sent directly to your new address.

Q. After I've let Social Security know, do I need to tell the Post Office that I'm moving?

A. Any time you are moving, it's a good idea to notify postal authorities. In case social security doesn't receive your notice in time to get your check mailed to the new address, the post office will forward the check to you.

High Court Nixes Appeal By Girl, 16

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court today dismissed an appeal in a damage suit from a 16-year-old Ashland County girl paralyzed from the waist down by a policeman's bullet.

She was wounded when the car in which she was riding ran a road block at Wellington Jan. 1, 1965.

The court said no substantial constitutional question was involved in the $500,000 lawsuit brought by Charlene Brewer and her mother, Elizabeth Brewer.

Defendants in the case were the Village of Wellington, three of its police officers and Frank Pavanowski, driver of the car that ran the roadblock.

A bullet from a policeman's gun struck the girl's spinal cord, court records showed. The suit was thrown out in Ashland County Common Pleas Court.

The Supreme Court also refused to hear an appeal from former Cuyahoga County Deputy sheriff Eugene Fetcho, convicted on three counts of aiding jail inmates in a planned jail break.

Fetcho was also charged with handing out special favors to at least three jail inmates during 1967 for monetary gain.

Briggs Quits McCall Post; See Trouble

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Jack Briggs, president of the McCall Printing Co., has resigned amid reports the huge plant's operation is crippled by internal problems.

An official with Norton-Simon, McCall's parent firm, said that "At this point" there is no thought of moving the operation one of Dayton's biggest employers, to another site.

E. Garrett Bewkes Jr., Norton-Simon vice president, said the Dayton plant which prints several nationally circulated magazines, "puts out a good product, but it is not putting it out on time and not profitably."

He added that "if this trend keeps up, sometime the string must run out. We think we'll be able to solve our problems. We need a positive approach. We don't want to scare anyone but the situation is not good."

Briggs quit unexpectedly last week to become the third division president to leave since September, 1968.

In a letter to McCall's 6,000 employees, Bewkes said Briggs was not fired but left because of "an increasing sense of frustration from being away from his family in Connecticut and a feeling that the problems in Dayton would require his continued stay in Dayton indefinitely."

Failure to produce on schedule was listed as the chief problem to be solved.

Bewkes asked the employees for their assistance and support in "rebuilding the Dayton operation to its former level of success" until a new president is appointed.

Abel Attacks General Electric Strike Position

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — General Electric Co. must learn "that collective bargaining does not mean that a company can dictate a settlement," I.W.Abel, president of the United Steel workers, told a labor rally here Wednesday night.

"If GE should prevail in its 'take-it or leave it' bargaining policy, every union would feel the impact," Abel told some 300 Cleveland AFL-CIO Federation of Labor delegates and other union members.

He also said the company was found guilty of "arrogant disregard of the labor law of the land" in a decision reached last month by the U.S. Court of Appeals concerning 1960 negotiations.

Abel warned that other company's will adopt GE's bargaining policies and make unions ineffective if the present national strike of 147,000 GE workers failed.

SUTTON WANTS OUT — Described as a sick old man called "Slick Willie" Sutton years ago for his bank robbing escapades, the 68-year-old inmate of a New York prison is seeking his freedom. He is scheduled to undergo surgery soon which could cost him the loss of both legs, it is said.

Royal Horses Are Spared

LONDON (AP)—The British army surrendered to Britain's animal lovers and promised to stop sending the queen's horses to be eaten by foreigners.

As the animal lovers' ire reached battle point, the army gave in and announced: "No more army horses will be sold for slaughter."

The fate of the ceremonial steeds—which carry Queen Elizabeth II's red-jacketed personal bodyguards, prance in coronations and state processions and pose for countless tourists—became a public issue Tuesday when newspapers revealed some of those put into retirement were sold to slaughterhouses and wound up as horse-meat in Europe.

The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals announced it was making arrangements to find homes for the old four-legged soldiers.

The army explained earlier it had sold the retired horses to slaughterhouses because they were accustomed to the excitement of life in London and would be unhappy if retired to a farm.

Prof Thinks Pornography Shows Insight Into Humans

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Dr. Morse Peckham flicked his gray beard, bit down on the cigarette holder and, from behind a cloud of smoke, said, "It is wrong to judge pornography as something that is all about sex—it can be an insight into human beings."

The University of South Carolina English professor, author of a new book entitled "Art and Pornography," said of his 300-page work: "Don't get excited, it isn't illustrated."

Peckham, a professor at the University of Pennsylvania for 18 years before coming to South Carolina, said he had no great interest in pornography when he started work on his book. Later, he said, he found the subject

"one of extraordinary intellectual experience—an opportunity to gain an insight of human beings."

He said pornography is viewed differently by the intellectual, who believes in innovation, and the anti-intellectual, who believes in social stability.

The intellectual is hesitant to admit that art can be pornographic, he said, and it is "mere carelessness on the part of literary critics to say that pornography cannot be literature and cannot be art."

The anti-intellectual, he said, refuses to admit that anything pornographic can be art and "wants to ban pornography in public while enjoying it in private. He feels he must maintain the morality of the community."

Among his other views: —"Cheap pornography is moving up the cultural ladder; it's better written now than the typical stories that once appeared in the old Saturday Evening Post."

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary for Ohio:

Winter-like weather has Ohio in its grasp.

Temperatures dropped into the 20s soon after midnight Wednesday and as dawn approached today had fallen into the upper teens in the northwest corner of the state.

Snow flurries were reported in nearly all portions of Ohio during the night.

A high pressure system will move into Ohio and continue to hold temperatures on the cool side through Friday. But a definite warming trend should materialize by Saturday.

FORECASTS

OHIO — Mostly cloudy, windy and cold tonight with snow flurries mainly in northeast half. Locally heavy snow squalls near Lake Erie northeast of Cleveland giving 4 inches or more new snow locally by evening. Lows tonight 10-15. Friday partly cloudy southwest and variable cloudiness with occasional snow flurries northeast. A little warmer.

NORTHWEST CENTRAL OHIO — Variable cloudiness and colder tonight with a chance of snow flurries. Lows near 10. Partly cloudy and not quite as cold Friday. Highs in the middle to lower 30s. Outlook Saturday partly cloudy and warmer.

SOUTHEAST OHIO — Mostly cloudy and cold tonight with a chance of snow flurries. Lows 10-15. Partly cloudy and not quite as cold Friday. Highs in the middle to lower 30s. Outlook Saturday: Partly cloudy and warmer.

SOUTHWEST OHIO — Partly cloudy and cold tonight with a chance of snow flurries well north of the Ohio River. Lows near 10. Considerable sunshine and warmer Friday. Highs in the 30s. Outlook Saturday: Partly cloudy and warmer.

HERE FOR A CHECKUP—Lord Avon, better known as Sir Anthony Eden, former prime minister of Britain, arrives at Boston's Logan International Airport en route to Lahey Clinic for a physical checkup. He has been having recurring fevers.

Washington Units Cost $1 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says it cost about $1 million to bring troops to Washington for last week's antiwar demonstrations.

The estimate Tuesday includes the expense of transporting 9,000 soldiers and Marines to the capital and supplying them over a seven-day period. It does not include military pay.

Advance elements of the force arrived a week ago. The last units left Washington overnight.

—The current increase in pornography is natural because "there is always a flood of pornography during times of cultural crisis, as we are undergoing today. The biggest spurge of pornography in history came during the French Revolution."

—There is no evidence that pornography has caused any harm, nor is there evidence it hasn't."

—Neither laws nor a Supreme Court decision can resolve the controversy over pornography. "There has been pornography throughout history and there will continue to be."

Vikings Are Solid

Teays Valley Will Have Veteran Team This Year

The basketball picture at Teays Valley is quite rosy as Coach Bob Hoover has four starters back from last year's squad plus additional help from last year's reserve squad.

Back to the wars are Dale Lambert, 5 feet 10 inches, Ed McCord, 5 feet 10 inches; Larry Dixon, 6 feet 1 inch and Don Bell, 5 feet 6 inches. These boys are the nucleus of a ball club that was the terror of the tournament trail last year.

Adding strength to this aggregation are John Glick, a transfer from Laurelville, Bob Tucker, Brent Roof and Don Neff, all from last year's reserve club. Neff at 6 feet 5 inches is the tallest player on the team.

Viking bench strength shows to good advantage with Wayne Brown, Dick Garren, Jeff Helser, Ed Combs and Harold Henson adding depth to the squad.

"We have a good shooting club," Coach Hoover stated, "and take the good shots when we have the opening. We don't play a pattern offense as such but can set up the plays when necessary."

"Our man to man defense works for us," Coach Hoover added, "as we have both quickness and speed on the ball club."

Neil Fosnough, sixth man on last year's team, has a football injury but is coming around and should be ready soon.

Dale Lambert, the sharp shooting guard, is one of the keys to the club. His accuracy from the floor plus his rebounding puts the drive in the Viking machine. Defensively his quickness and ball hawking adds emphasis to the other qualities.

Teays Valley will have something to say in the Metropolitan League and will be considered one of the favorites. Coach Hoover feels that West Jefferson will be the team to beat as they have a big solid club.

Here is the complete Teays Valley schedule:

St. Louis Blues Blank Pittsburgh

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Frank Mahovlich's snappy hat trick kept the Red Wings in contention while a three-goal barrage by Ab McDonald zipped the Blues to an easy victory. In Chicago Bobby Hull didn't score any goals—but he was back.

Montreal jumped out to a 4-0 lead after one period against Detroit Wednesday night before Mahovlich went to work midway in the second stanza. The Big M needed less than seven minutes. He made it 4-1 at 9:17 added another score 3:30 later and capped his three-goal explosion at 16:15.

The Red Wings finally earned a 5-5 tie on Carl Brewer's first goal of the season with two seconds remaining to play in the National Hockey League contest.

N.D. State Holds Grid Poll Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — North Dakota State and Montana remained one-two in the nation's small college football rankings but a showdown battle between the two unbeaten powers should settle the war.

The Bison, 9-0, from Fargo, ranked No. 1 virtually all season, will face the Grizzlies of Missoula, 10-0, in the Camelia Bowl on Dec. 1 in Sacramento, Calif.

North Dakota State has ended its regular season and did not play last week. However, Montana did and walloped South Dakota 58-0 to solidify its No. 2 ranking.

The Bison received 10 first-place votes and 280 votes overall today in the balloting from sports writers and sportscasters voting in the Associated Press national panel.

Montana received but one first place vote and 256 votes. Last week the margin was 300-279.

Delaware, 7-2, third last week, took the biggest nosedive among the Top Twenty teams, dropping to 14th after losing to Boston University, 30-14.

Colorado State College 9-0, made the biggest advances, jumping from 15th to seventh after trouncing Washburn.

Another big step was taken by Wittenberg, 8-0, which edged into a tie for 10th place after whipping Ashland 33-16. The Tigers were 18th last week.

Akron, 9-1, nipped Western Kentucky 21-18 last week and edged to No. 3, up from No. 4. Louisiana Tech, 7-1, came from seventh to fourth, helped by its 77-40 thrashing of Lamar Tech.

Alcorn A&M, 7-0-1, moved up a notch to fifth after beating Prairie View, 29-14. Switching places with Alcorn was New Mexico Highlands, 8-0-1, about just getting past San Fernando Valley State, 23-19.

Tampa moved into the Top Ten, making the No. 8 spot after being 11th last week. Tampa 6-2-1, beat Northern Michigan 39-35 Saturday.

Arkansas State, 6-1-1, dropped a spot to ninth after beating Texas Arlington 13-3 while Sacramento State earned a tie for 10th, topping Humboldt State 20-17. Sacramento, 7-2, was 12th last week.

Newcomers to the Top Twenty were No. 15 St. Olaf, 8-1; No. 18 Florida A&M, 5-1; and Colorado College, 6-2, tied for No. 19.

Westfall-Circleville Game Is Basketball Headliner

The basketball season gets off the ground in Pickaway County Friday with three of the four teams seeing action.

Circleville and Westfall inaugurate the season at the old Mill Street gymnasium in the annual battle between the two county foes. The Westfall game is always played in the Mill Street facility because the seating capacity is much larger than at the high school.

The house is always packed for the game. Westfall was 15-6 for the season last year, going to the Central District finals before being knocked out of the tournament.

Coach Paul Hoskins has Greg Bigam and Bill Blair returning from that team. Bigam was the team's leading scorer last year.

upper classmen, there are three other seniors with varsity experience. They are Tom Hawker, Rick Beatty and Steve Sines. Randy Alkire and Larry Kempton are two juniors on the squad. Kempton is the tallest member of the team at 6 feet 3 inches.

Sophomore candidates are Mark Schein, Bruce Beatty, Mike Puckett and Chuck Steinhauer.

On Saturday, Circleville travels to Chillicothe and Westfall is at Fairfield Union.

Also playing Friday is Teays Valley. The Vikings will host Columbus North. On Saturday, Teays Valley invades the balliwick of the Logan Elm Braves.

In other action Friday, Laurelville travels to Southeastern.

Bullets Rip Suns, 133-118, In NBA Action

The streaking Baltimore Bullets notched their fifth victory in a row Wednesday night and eighth in nine National Basketball Association games and still can't gain any ground.

The Bullets, second in the Eastern Division of the NBA with a 12-6 mark after Wednesday's 133-118 victory over Phoenix, have finally begun to click after a slow start but remained 5½ games behind the amazing New York Knicks, who are off to an 18-1 start with 13 straight triumphs.

The Bullets got balanced scoring, led by Jack Marin's 22 points and 21 from Gus Johnson as they broke open the game in the second quarter and led 71-56 at the half.

Wes Unseld and Ray Scott added 18 points for Baltimore while Gail Goodrich had 29 for the Suns in the opener of an NBA doubleheader at Philadelphia.

In other NBA games, San Diego spurted for a 125-116 victory over Philadelphia, Los Angeles trimmed Cincinnati 116-103, Boston blasted Chicago 122-106 and Atlanta trimmed Seattle 137-116.

John Block tossed in 33 points and Elvin Hayes and Jim Barnett added 25 apiece as the Rockets moved to their fourth victory in five games over the slumping 76ers, who dropped 11 games behind New York.

The injury-plagued Lakers, playing without Wilt Chamberlain, Elgin Baylor and Johnny Egan, spurted to a 23-point lead the first half and held off the Royals.

Dick Garrett had 20 points in the opening half and Jerry West took over in the final 24 minutes, closing with a game-high 32 points. Oscar Robertson had 21 points for the Royals as Coach Bob Cousy dressed for the game but did not play.

Tom Sanders hit on four straight baskets in the opening minutes, keying the Celtics to their easy victory. Sanders also stopped high-scoring Chet Walker, holding the Bulls' ace to 15 points. He was averaging 26.

See Clem Turner As Bengal Starter

CINCINNATI (AP) — Rookie Clem Turner will probably be starting in the offensive backfield—in place of Jess Phillips—when the Cincinnati Bengals take on New York Sunday.

"We're going to utilize our bigger backs more this week," Coach Paul Brown said Wednesday referring to Turner and Ron Lamb. "We just think there's a possibility of heavier going this week."

Nicklaus Builds Own Golf Courses To Suit Himself

By HUBERT MIZELL Associated Press Sports Writer MIAMI (AP)—Jack Nicklaus is fighting for smaller greens to "bring the deft art of chipping back into golf."

The trimmed-down Ohio strongboy doesn't care for 95-foot putts, the kind that drop in the cup once a year.

"Nothing is more beautiful than a good chip that dies 18 inches from the hole — unless it's a chip that goes in," Nicklaus said. "If I had my way, all greens would be cut down to half the size."

Nicklaus is beginning to have his way, too. The millionaire golfer, still two months shy of 30, is constructing golf courses the way his taste dictates with the helping hand of architect Pete Dye.

"I'm tired of courses built by nongolfers for nongolfers," said the blond winner of three Masters titles. "My courses won't be built just so pros will like them. They will be set up so anybody's game can be suited by moving the tees around."

Current gem of the building string of Nicklaus-Dye courses is nearly complete at Hilton Head, S.C., an isolated millionaire's playground on the Atlantic shore. The $100,000 Heritage Classic will help break in the layout over Thanksgiving weekend.

"We use a collection of construction methods," Nicklaus said, "including a trick from the Scots that helps make water hazards more fair." Nicklaus and Dye use railroad ties among other items to help firm up shorelines. Their aim is to have a ball that hits near a body of water bounce away from the drink instead of trickling in.

"I think if you hit the water directly, that's what you deserve," said Jack, staring at the ceiling as he chatted. "But when a fellow hits three feet from the edge, why the heck should he always bounce into the water?"

"Clearing the land is an art if you know what you're doing," Nicklaus said. "I don't discredit any other golf course architects, but I have some strong thoughts. We clear with silk gloves in a way, making certain the right trees aren't bulldozed away."

The Nicklaus-Dye greens, in addition to being small, are usually built at natural ground level. Instead of piling dirt for a green like many architects, the Jack and Pete team prefer to carve away around the putting surface.

"It allows more abrupt changes," Nicklaus said. "I detest large greens or poorly-constructed greens." Many putting surfaces contain as many as 10,000 square feet while the average Nicklaus-Dye green is about 4,500 square feet, hence the premium on accurate chip shots.

In spite of his new interest as a builder, the rich onetime Ohio State star still has a yen for the excitement—not to mention the millions—of the pro tour.

"I still have the drive to win," he said. "I pick my events so my family can receive the attention it deserves, but I'll play as long as I can be a credit to myself and the sport."

McCovey Beats Seaver As Most Valuable Player

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) Willie McCovey, San Francisco's home run and runs batted in champion, shaded Tom Seaver, the New York Mets' ace who led the majors with 25 victories for the 1969 National League Most Valuable Player Award Thursday although each received 11 first place votes.

McCovey wound up with 265 points to Seaver's 243 in the balloting of the 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers Association announced by Jack Lang, secretary-treasurer. The secret vote by two committee men from each league city was taken after the season and before the playoffs and included only regular season performances. Lang tabulated the votes this week.

Hank Aaron, Atlanta outfielder who ranks No. 3 on the all-time home run list, was third with two first-place votes and 188 points. Aaron won the MVP in 1957 when the Braves were in Milwaukee. Pete Rose of Cincinnati, the two-time batting champ, was next with 127 points, followed closely by Ron Santo, Chicago's third baseman, with 124.

Tommie Agee and Cleon Jones, who play side by side in the Mets' outfield, were next. Agee had 89 points and Jones, who led the league during most of the summer had 82 points.

Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh, the winner in 1966, was eighth with 51 points, followed by Phil Niekro, Atlanta's knuckleball pitcher with 47 and Tony Perez, Cincinnati third baseman, with 28.

In addition to Aaron, and Clemente, other former MVP winners to get votes were Ernie Banks, the 1958-59 champ, 15; Maury Wills, of Los Angeles, the 1962 winner, 17; Bob Gibson of St. Louis, last year's MVP, 2.

and Orlando Cepeda of Atlanta, the 1967 MVP, 1.

A total of 38 players were mentioned in the scattered voting. Last year when Gibson won he received 14 of the 20 firsts, the other six going to Rose. The committee was expanded to 24 this year because of the addition of Montreal and San Diego.

McCovey beat out Seaver with 11 firsts, nine seconds, two thirds and two fourths, the only player mentioned on all 24 ballots. Two men did not list Seaver, who received 11 firsts, four seconds, five thirds, one fourth and one fifth. Aaron was listed on 23 of the 24 ballots. Some writers confine their votes to men who play every day and do not list pitchers.

Schembechler May Team Taylor, Doughty Saturday

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan football coach Bo Schembechler may have an ace up his sleeve when his Wolverines meet Ohio State, the nation's No. 1 team, Saturday.

But despite saying that practice this week "will be no cloak and dagger affair," Schembechler has closed the sessions to the public.

The "ace" could very well be that he will use both Billy Taylor and Glenn Doughty in the same backfield, a scheme he tried briefly against Iowa last week "as an experiment."

Both are sophomore tailbacks and are 1-2 in rushing on the team. But Taylor is a late-bloomer, having started his first game only four weeks ago as a replacement for the then injured Doughty. Since then he has rolled

The American League's Most Valuable Player was Harmon Killebrew of the Minnesota Twins. Like McCovey, Killebrew played for a team that did not win the pennant although the Twins did take a divisional title.

McCovey, who played much of the season with a painful arthritic condition in his hip, batted .320 while appearing in 149 of 162 games. It was the second straight year McCovey, 31, had won both the homer and RBI titles. In '69, McCovey had 45 homers and 126 RBI.

Seaver won his last 10 regular season starts for the Mets in their pennant drive. He is only 25 years old.

ed up 673 yards. Over-all Doughty has rushed for 693 yards on 144 carries for a 4.8-yard average. Taylor has a phenomenal 7.2-yard average on 724 yards in 100 tries.

"Will you put them together against Ohio State?" Schembechler was asked immediately following U-M's 51-6 drubbing of Iowa.

"If I knew I wouldn't tell you," he grinned.

Then at a press luncheon this week he was asked the same question.

"I refuse to answer on the grounds that it might incriminate me," Schembechler smiled.

The biggest factor against such a move is the blocking of fullback Garvie Craw. With Craw out, whoever runs from the tailback spot may not be able to do so well.

"You have to remember that when a runner gets a lot of yardage there usually is one player whose key block sprung him loose," Schembechler said earlier in the year, indicating the key blocker on several good Doughty runs was Craw.

Craw has rushed for 273 yards in 94 carries for a modest 2.9 average. But he has yet to lose a yard and has scored 66 points on 11 touchdowns.

Besides quarterback Don Moorhead, Michigan's fourth back has been flanker John Gabler. At the most, U-M runs about three plays a game with Gabler or his replacement Preston Henry carrying the ball.

Nets Snap Losing Skein; Beat Miami

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Nets are giving Lavern Tart a second chance and so far he hasn't done them wrong. The former Bradley star dealt away last season but picked up again this year fired in 33 points as the Nets snapped an eight-game losing streak Wednesday night beating the Miami Floridians 115-110.

The New Orleans Buccaneers behind Steve Jones' 32 points whipped the Washington Caps 122-115 in the only other American Basketball Association action.

Tart poured in 27 first-half points as the Nets jumped to an 18-point lead at intermission. But Miami led by Donnie Freeman bounced back in the third quarter to pull within eight points.

Skip Thoren's last minute goal reduced New York's lead to 113-110 but Les Hunter hit for the Nets with 40 seconds remaining to put the game away. Thoren paced Miami with 28 points.

The victory was only New York's fourth against 12 losses and kept them in the Eastern Division cellar percentage points behind fifth place Miami 5-13.

New Orleans meanwhile romped to its seventh straight homecourt victory and increased its lead in the Western Division to a full game over Los Angeles.

Jackie Moreland contributed to the Bucs' attack with 29 points while Warren Armstrong paced Washington with 21.

Dartmouth Leading In Pass Defense

NEW YORK (AP) — Guess who's still leading in major college pass defense?

Not Ohio State, not Notre Dame, not UCLA, but Dartmouth of the Ivy League.

Unbeaten Dartmouth has allowed opposing passers only 89.3 yards per game and leads in pass defense for the fourth week in the last five, according to statistics released today by the National Collegiate Sports Services.

Randy Johnson Wins Game Honors

ATLANTA (AP) — "It's too bad they don't pick an offensive team of the week instead of a player," says Atlanta Falcons quarterback Randy Johnson. The Associated Press choice for offensive player of the week in the National Football League.

"My job was easy," Johnson said Wednesday of the Falcons' 48-31 upset Sunday over the Chicago Bears in which he threw four touchdown passes and completed 10 of 14 for 202 yards.

"We had blocking and we had people catching the football, so all I had to do was put it out there."

Otis Looks For Michigan Trouble

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It's okay with Jim Otis, the second best rusher in Ohio State football history, if Michigan keys on him Saturday.

"I hope they do," the 219-pound senior from Celina, Ohio, said. "It leaves somebody else free."

Purdue watched Otis closely last week, but absorbed a 42-14 Big Ten beating when tailback Leo Hayden shook loose for 130 yards and quarterback Rex Kern contributed 161 total yards.

"When I came off the field one time a Purdue linebacker sat down next to me, he was following me so closely," Otis kidded.

The blond better's 2,398 rushing yards is some tribute to the out-going, loose Otis.

Otis' total is second only to Howard (Hopalong) Cassady's rushing record. He needs 69 yards against the Michigan defense to pass the mark. Hoppy took four years to do it. Jim can do it in three seasons.

"He's the best fullback since I've been here," says Hayes, in his 19th season as Ohio State coach. "It's amazing how many things he does well."

Hayes does not hide his feelings about Otis. Someone suggested after the Purdue win that he was one of the nation's best fullbacks.

Hayes jumped up, fists clinched and bellowed:

"That makes me sort of mad. One of the best . . . well, show me a better one. Our John Brockington is good; Otis is better. That fellow at Oklahoma (Steve Owens) is a tailback, not a fullback."

Otis has overcome one stigma. His dad, Dr. Jim Otis, was a college roommate of Hayes at Denison University. Some contended Woody played the younger Otis because of this friendship.

Jim's yardage, 34 touchdowns and helping the Buckeyes to a 23-3 record in his three seasons has silenced the critics.

Lintner's teams compiled a 10-25-1 record, finishing the past season 3-5-1.

Otis would like to give pro football a whirl and Hayes maintains "he'll go high in the draft."

"Pro scouts have told me I have enough size," Otis said. "They're looking for a man with quickness and I feel mine is good."

Otis realizes the position he's in as the fullback on the nation's No. 1 team — idolized by many.

Before one practice this week,

Jim was busy getting mates to autograph a football. He was going to present it to a boy who was to undergo surgery for a third time.

"If this will help this boy get well," Otis explained, "then I think it's up to us to do it."

Like Kern, Otis is very active in the Fellowship for Christian Athletes. He helped form the Central Ohio chapter and speaks to youth groups regularly.

"BREAKFAST MASSACRE" SURVIVOR—A survivor of the "breakfast massacre" at Truong An in South Vietnam's Quang Ngai Province holds up a mutilated hand during the telling by villagers of how a U.S. force routed everybody out at breakfast time and moved down hundreds. GIs stationed there now say half the villagers are Viet Cong and it isn't safe to sleep in the same place two nights in a row. (Radiophoto)

OBJET D'MOON—Thirty-one months ago Surveyor 3 was spic and span (above) before it soft-landed on the Moon. Apollo 12 astronauts Pete Conrad and Alan Bean landed the Lunar Module Intrepid within 600 feet of the Surveyor and were scheduled to partially dismantle it and return some of the parts, such as the television camera, sheathing around the fuel tanks (lower right) and cables (lower center), back to Earth for scientific study.

Apollo 12 Scientific Contribution Great

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — With a bull's-eye landing, treasure chests full of carefully selected moonstones, pieces of Surveyor 3 and an array of sophisticated experiments deployed on the lunar surface, Apollo 12 is sure to contribute more to science than any previous space flight.

Only one major objective remains—taking close-up pictures of three possible landing sites for future missions—before astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Richard F. Gordon Jr. and Alan L. Bean can head home knowing they did all they set out to do. They'll do that Friday.

Apollo 12's landing just 20 feet from the edge of a crater in which Surveyor 3 is located clears the way for future missions to more rugged terrain, where smaller safe landing zones exist but where scientists say the most knowledge can be gained.

The theory is that volcanoes or meteor impacts have tossed material from deep inside the lunar crust onto the surface in these areas. If so, rocks collected from these rugged sites could harbor numerous secrets about the moon's interior and thus possibly provide more information about the origin of the moon, the earth and the solar system.

During two excursions outside the Intrepid lander craft, Conrad and Bean collected an estimated 80 to 100 pounds of rocks far more carefully selected than those picked up on Apollo 11—including some that may have been tossed to the site when the huge crater Copernicus was created 200 miles to the north.

Knowledge to come from this treasure chest of rocks will only be learned after long months of studying the specimens, "but we're sure we'll learn something, I can tell you that," one scientist predicted.

Pieces of Surveyor 3 snipped off by Conrad will give engineers valuable information about how well man-made materials wear in the lunar environment. This type of data can prove useful in designing future spacecraft or permanent habitats to house scientists on the lunar surface.

Five scientific experiments deployed on the surface by Conrad and Bean have already begun to unravel secrets of the moon. Sources said one of them, designed to measure any gas particles above the surface, has shown the moon may have an atmosphere one-millionth that of earth.

Data was recorded on a seismometer experiment when Conrad rolled a rock down a nearby crater, proving the device should be able to do what it is designed to do: determine the structure of the moon's interior by listening for moonquakes or sonic signals produced by falling meteors.

Other experiments in the package will analyze particles in radiation storms streaming from the sun, helping scientists understand potential hazards to space travelers, and detect whether or not the moon has magnetic fields.

Bob Hope Plans Christmas Trip

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope will make his 19th Christmas trip this year to entertain U.S. servicemen abroad, including his sixth visit to fighting men in Vietnam.

The National Broadcasting Co. said Tuesday that Hope will take a troupe of entertainers on a 15-day tour of bases in Germany, Italy, Turkey, Thailand, South Vietnam, Formosa and Guam.

The tour will start in mid-December. It is sponsored by the U.S. Department of Defense and the United Services Organiza-

Enemy troops firing machine guns and small arms hit a U.S. Army helicopter removing wounded Americans during fighting Wednesday 35 miles northwest of Saigon.

"The aircraft was not downed; however, one pilot was wounded," U.S. headquarters said. Three American infantrymen were killed and six wounded in the 30-minute ground fight, while enemy losses were not known.

The American withdrawal program continued with the departure by ship for Okinawa of the 4th Marine Regiment's 3rd Battalion, which left Da Nang aboard the assault transport Tripoli. The 900-man unit was the last one from the 3rd Division to leave Vietnam.

The division, which numbered about 23,000 men with supporting air and ground units, had operated near the demilitarized zone for nearly five years. Most of the men who left today had completed at least eight months in Vietnam. Those men of the battalion who hadn't were transferred to the 1st Marine Division, which is operating south of Da Nang.

Some 500,000 of Ghana's, 8,400,000 people live in Accra, a capital with a modern core but sprawling suburbs. The city's fast-growing outskirts have been described as a "tangle of brown grass plots, barbed wire, scaffolding and boxy houses dumped down like forgotten parcels."
